

【第1部】 音読問題

Mika is a junior high school student. Her teacher told students in her class to make a speech. Everyone thought about what to say and how to say. Then her teacher said that it is also important to think about how to listen to other students. Mika became interested in it. So Mika started to get some information about it on the Internet. She found some ways to be a good listener. First, it is important to look at the speaker's eyes. This shows that you are really listening. Second, ask some questions. By asking questions, you get more information and ideas from the speaker.
